

MY TURN

WHAT KIND OF VIOLATION?

Directions: Read each situation in the list below and decide if it is a personal boundary violation or a body boundary violation.

BODY BOUNDARY	PERSONAL BOUNDARY

Someone wants your seat on the bus. You don't want to move. They push you on the floor and take your seat.

Some of your friends decide to play a trick on you. They take your journal and read private things that you have written. They share those things with all your friends.

You are introduced to your new neighbor. You put out your hand for her to shake, but she grabs your hand and pulls you in for a big hug instead. She hugs you too long.

Your brother's friend touches you on a private part of your body. He is laughing when he says it was an accident.

One of your uncle's friends asks you a lot of personal questions at your family's cookout. You tell him that is private information. He tells you that you are being silly and keeps pressuring you to answer.

Someone texts an embarrassing picture of you to a lot of the kids at school.
